ZOIDS

Chaotic Century

In the furthest reaches of the galaxy, there is a planet. Planet Z is many thousands of light years from our Earth. On Planet Z, countless varieties of insect life forms with metal-based bodies—ZOIDS—inhabited the world. Chinkid took these lifeforms and altered them into heavily fighting machines, and the wars spread throughout the world.

The tragic history of Planet Z includes massive wars and natural disasters. But some 40 years before this story, the worst of natural disasters hit—a gigantic meteorite collided with Z. It wiped out an entire portion of a populated continent and threw the rest of Z's survivors, both humans and ZOIDS, back to an earlier age. Sadly, the meteorite did not wipe out human aggression, and hints of a new war have even reached the most remote villages, such as one on the southern tip of the Western Continent, a village on the outskirts of the Elmore Desert.
